INTRODUCTION

Another year of our church activities has passed into history. This may seem like a trite saying, for as the year closes all our activities for that year also cease. Yet we had a purpose in saying what we did, for the Year Book is published especially to record the church activities of the Mennonite Church for the year that is past. Accordingly we have made a conscientious effort to bring all the statistical material up to date. The church memberships of the various congregations and conferences have been revised according to the latest figures available by Conference secretaries or other responsible persons.

While we are on this subject we might notice a few things about the membership of the branch of the Mennonite Church which we represent. On page 76 you will find that the total membership is now 49,796, just a little more than 200 under the 50,000 mark. The gain over last year is 1,570. The membership in the United States is 43,718, a gain of 1,339. To be sure the percentage of gain is not large, yet in these days when many churches are barely holding their own and some are even declining, it is encouraging to note that some growth is being made.

We wish to call attention to another sign of progress. Three new home mission stations are recorded in the Year Book this year: Sunnyside, near Lancaster, Pa.; Coatesville, Pa.; and Hutchinson, Kans. All of these, we believe, were started before last year, but the work has now reached such a stage of permanency that they are given a place in the Year Book. Probably there are other places that should be recorded also, but are not listed because we were not furnished with the necessary data. In spite of the depression our foreign missions are keeping up their work, and the native churches are growing. No doubt more and more responsibility will be placed on the native Christians so that eventually they will be able to largely carry on the work themselves. Both India and South America now each have two native ministers of the Gospel. But while we note these evidences of outward growth of the Church let us also work and pray to the end that the inward spiritual growth in the hearts and lives of our people may also increase.

When we compare the receipts of the Mission Board for the year with those of last year, the detailed account of which you will find on another page, you will notice a decrease of $46,809.62. This is, of course, quite a drop, but when we consider how the earning power and resources of our people are being constantly reduced from year to year, it is only what we might reasonably expect. No doubt the Lord has lessons for us to learn through this depression that we could not learn otherwise. May we profit by every experience that comes our way.

The list of names and addresses of bishops, ministers, and deacons has also been thoroughly revised. On another page will be found a list of some of our faithful workers who have passed to the Great Beyond. Others have been ordained to take their places, and the number of ordained workers is increased by about 16 over last year. May these new recruits all be faithful to their sacred trust.

But let us not look over the work of the past with pride. Let us rather in deep humility dedicate ourselves anew to the work of the Kingdom of God and do all in our power to make a better record this year than last, not for the applause of men, but for the approval of our Father in heaven.

OUR MISSION OUTLOOK

By S. E. Allgyer, Field Worker of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities

Conditions as they are in the world to-day, with apparently nothing in sight to guarantee a change for the better along agricultural or industrial lines, makes the Mission Outlook from one angle very uncertain. However, the promises of God are as bright as ever, and these, coupled with the faithfulness of the Church in the past, give us hope and encouragement for the future.

The Mission Board is certainly very grateful to God and the Church for the way the work has been supported. Our people have contributed for the Mission cause in spite of difficult experiences in trying to make ends meet in their own financial program. We appreciate the splendid coöperation given by the workers on the field in their efforts to make a dollar go as far as possible, and actually get along with as few of them as is within their power, and to economize along every line so as to keep all of the various missionary activities going, even though the contributions are less.

The purpose of the Mission Board is to direct and stimulate the mission and charitable interests of the Church, and as long as the Church is able to continue her support, regularly and systematically, the cause of Christ need not suffer at our hands; but the question comes to us, Should we be satisfied merely to keep things going, without extending the work from year to year, when there is such a great need, both in the home field as well as in the foreign field?

It may be of interest to know the exact difference in the contributions in recent years. In 1929 the total receipts for a period of eight months, from April to November, were $103,-269.74, while in 1932, for the same months, the total receipts were only $65,561.66, but it is also gratifying to note that the receipts for November, 1932, were almost equal to the average amount given in November during the last five years. The exchange rate has been very helpful to our foreign missionaries, because American money has been at a premium, that is the American dollar, in the exchanging brings more than the par value of the foreign money. This has been a great help. See also the complete list of contributions for 1932, and the comparative totals for 1931, found elsewhere in this issue.

The increase in annuities during the last few years has also helped out in the work. The total amount of annuities in the hands of the Board is $151,645.00, and I am sure if folks would have invested in annuities in the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities instead of in worthless stocks and bonds, they would have a regular income, and the Mission cause would be better supplied with the necessary finances, and that not only for the time being, but for time to come, or as long as time lasts. And I might add that such investments will give us clearer consciences also. We believe the annuity plan offered by the Mission Board offers an opportunity worthy of consideration by those who have been blessed with finances, and the question comes, Where can investments be made that are safe, and at the same time profitable? Notice these facts: Annuities are not taxable, they bear a reasonable rate of interest, paid semi-annually. These matters ought to sound good to people in these days of uncertainty. Annuities are not only good investments, but they are a great help in carrying the Mission work over this crisis.

To continue our mission work two things are of special importance: volunteers and finances. The first could be secured if the second were forthcoming. Extension work cannot be undertaken without available resources. The amount of endowment now in the hands of the Board is $217,-556.36. The income from this money is a great help to keep the work going, and is a permanent method of support, regardless of depression.

The present conditions have created considerable concern among the missionaries on the field, and have led them to pray more definitely for the faithful contributors, and for those who are supporting individuals and find it very difficult to keep up with their pledges. A number of those who are being supported have large deficits. One missionary on the field has a deficit in her support account of $544.68; another one has $427.59; another $432.53; and still another $325.00. Other deficits are for smaller amounts.

This, of course, is not very encouraging to the missionaries on the field, but we are glad that they are patient and sympathetic toward their faithful supporters during this critical period in the homeland. An occasional letter from the missionary to the supporter, would be a help to keep up the necessary courage, at a time when things look dark and discouraging, because of losing homes and other financial resources. But one thing we can be thankful for, regardless of difficulties and hard places, we may still have the Lord with us, and we can keep looking for the inheritance promised to those who believe and are faithful in His service. We can rest assured that this promised inheritance is incorruptible, and is kept in reservation for them who are kept by the power of God through faith, ready to be revealed in the last time.

With these promises and many more, may we enter upon the duties and responsibilities of the year 1933 with renewed hope and energy, continuing to labor and pray for the success of our missionary activities, and that we as a Church may see the opportunities lying before us to bring the message we hold dear to a world lost in sin. The world needs the Gospel message, and the only possible avenue the Lord has of making Himself known is through the Church. This brings a responsibility to every believer, whether in the homeland or on the foreign field.

During these trying times it may be well for us to read again and again, Psalm 27:14, "Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart: wait, I say, on the Lord."

In closing let me again say, in behalf of the Board, that we greatly appreciate the fact that the contributions have kept up as well as they have. We realize that much has been given at a real sacrifice, and possibly some have gone beyond their means in order to keep up their pledges. We also appreciate the spirit manifested by the workers in our institutions and mission stations in heartily coöperating in our economy program, thus making it possible to continue our missionary activities. May the Lord richly reward every individual, for the faithful service rendered.

FIVE MINUTES AFTER DEATH

Dives and Lazarus, Luke 16

THE HISTORY OF PELLEGRINI

By Elvin V. Snyder

For many years, almost from the beginning of our work in the Argentine, some one had visited Pellegrini regularly, distributing tracts and selling Bibles.

Pellegrini is a small country town of about two thousand people. It has several large department stores—as department stores go in the country, with especially large credit systems. For modern convenience there are Ford and Chevrolet agencies. In order to provide the necessities of life and a bit of work for some of her citizens there are bakeries, mosaic and macaroni factories, carpenter, harness and blacksmith shops, and most of the ordinary activities of life and industry. There is a branch of the Provincial Bank. Most of the people use electric lights. Recently a beautiful new school was erected by the government there. The police station has a regularly strong force of more or less efficient policemen. The three main political parties have offices there and engage in all the fine political arts.

Religiously, there are the Roman Catholics who ten years ago started the building of a respectable little cathedral, with door and window frames placed, but have continued to pay for over twenty years twelve hundred pesos annually for the rent of a hall. Ten years ago that amount would have finished the building, but to-day it will require twice that much, which illustrates, by the way, the spiritual fervor of the town. There is also a sect of quack-doctor zealots who are disciples of "La Madre Maria"* (The Mother Mary). They have built a church, on the outside of which they have placed in letters of mortar—"La Religion de Fe y de Jesucristo" (The religion of faith and of Jesus Christ) and on the inside of which they preach cold baths as the remedy for anything from stomach ache to double pneumonia.

A South American Sunday School Group

The Protestant Evangelical work in this town was opened militantly in May, 1930, by the Brethren Luayza, Swartzentruber, and Zagami. A hall was rented, benches were made, and a series of meetings were begun with the usual enthusiasm, good attendance, and capers by naughty boys. One evening while Brother Luayza was praying a piece of brick singed his hair. In all of our work "bochinches" (disturbances) are expected, but they usually take less violent forms, such as yelling in at the door or window, whistling, laughing, etc., but we praise the Lord this time for poor marksmanship on their part.

* This sect has nothing to do with the Roman Catholic Maryology, although its name might lead one to think so. The founder is Maria Salome de Loredo y Otaola, viuda de Subiza, which means that she is Mrs. Mary etc., Subiza, widow. Her name "Maria" gave rise to her being called "La Madre Maria," and she is supposed to have received "divine power" from one Pancho Sierra, a rich farmer monk and spiritist.

These meetings continued during two weeks with the result that nine persons manifested a desire to follow Jesus and have been continuing faithfully. After these meetings and until May, 1932, T. K. Hershey and E. V. Snyder were in charge of the work, visiting the town on Sundays.

One Dutch family (that is, Hollanders) have retained in their home many (Pennsylvania?) Dutch customs. It is a pleasure to visit there and to say an occasional Dutch word. This family already knew the Gospel and used to call themselves "Protestants." They were so eager and sincere in their new Christian experiences and knowing something of theological terminology began to call themselves and the other faithful ones, "Creyentes" (believers).

These "Creyentes" then immediately appealed for special studies in the New Testament, hence they soon merited the name "Bereans." We had just compiled a little book of twenty lessons in Christian Doctrine and began to use it as a study every Sunday morning. They were quite enthused over this and would hold little meetings during the week, and although they lamented not having any one to explain them, would spend the time reading the references. In the time since then, however, and because one pastor could not go regularly, interest dragged somewhat, and the growth was not as rapid as the beginning had indicated.

In March, 1931, Sister Anita Cavadore went to Pellegrini as the first missionary sent out by the Argentine Mennonite Church. She started a kindergarten, a Sunday school, and does Bible reading and personal work.

A little over a year later Pellegrini was given a resident pastor in the person of Bro. Pablo Cavadore. In order to accommodate his family it was necessary to look for another location where the hall and house would be close together. It happened that at that moment the house and hall that the Roman Catholic Church occupied was being vacated, and it being a central location, we rented it—unfurnished.

The presence of a resident worker has more than repaid our hopes because since the Cavadores are there the interest and spirituality have grown favorably. The membership at the end of 1932 is thirteen.

There is no fact of science that stands out more plainly on the face of nature than does the fact of a God. There is no part of profane history, much as men rely on it, which is underlaid by so great and solid a body of proof as are the chief facts of Christianity.—E. F. Burr, in the C. U. Herald.

BEFORE NEW YEAR

Dear Lord, before this year is born
I give it to Thy hand,
Content to walk by faith what paths
I cannot understand.

Whatever coming days may bring
Of bitter loss, or gain,
Or very crown of happiness,
Should sorrow come, or pain,

Or Lord, if all unknown to me
Thine angel hovers near
To call me to that farther shore
Before another year,

It matters not,—my hand in Thine,
Thy light upon my face,
Thy boundless strength when I am weak,
Thy love and saving grace!

I only ask,—loose not my hand,
Grip fast my soul, and be
My light of life upon the path
Till,—blind no more,—I see!

REPORT OF THE ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING OF THE INDIA MISSION

The Business meeting of our Mission for 1932 is now history. The number of missionaries and missionary children was smaller than it has been for some years. There were twenty-seven missionaries present and only eight children. But even if the numbers were fewer the presence of the Spirit was not less pronounced. In fact in the minds of a number there has been a steadily growing conviction the past several years that we need to lay hold of God in a more effective way, and this year marked an even more pronounced growth, which has already expressed itself in several retreats for prayer, Bible study, and meditation, in order to arm ourselves for the coming touring season in particular. We are expecting the Lord to be able to use us in an effective way.

As usual the first day of our meeting was given over entirely to the discussion of inspirational subjects. Bro. Beare delivered a message on "The Overcoming Life," Bro. Kaufman discussed "The Message of the Epistle to the Philippians," and Bro. Troyer talked on "That I May Impart Unto You Some Spiritual Gift." Both forenoon and afternoon sessions ended with open discussion and seasons of prayer. In the first talk the fact that the obtaining of the overcoming life is a very simple thing, but, that it means absolute surrender to God, was emphasized. The Philippian letter, it was pointed out, was an acknowledgment of a gift, but Paul took the opportunity rather to instruct his followers so that they might not fall into some errors that were prevalent. In the third subject it was emphasized that we should use every opportunity when our brethren and sisters here come to us in the ordinary rounds of our work to appreciate their problems and joys and pray with them and work with them in every way we can.

After the first day each session was opened with one talk after which the regular business of the mission was taken up. The devotional for each morning session of the Business meeting throughout was conducted by Bro. Kniss. These devotional periods did much to put our minds into the proper state for the work of the day. On the second day in the morning we were privileged to hear messages from the homeland from Sister Hartzler and Sister Kanagy. We rejoiced to hear of the spiritual victories at home and we could appreciate to a much greater extent the many difficulties and problems that face the Church. These messages created in us a greater desire to sacrifice and do our utmost for the kingdom of God.

The other messages brought to us during these days were: "The Missionary Methods of Paul," "Mysticism as an Avenue of Approach to the Hindus," "The Present Evangelistic Outlook," and "The Message of the First Epistle of John." These were given by Bros. Vogt, Brunk, Hostetler, and Lapp respectively.

One of the outstanding questions taken up in the business part of the meeting was that of native pastors. We now have one and we are looking forward to having more in the not distant future. There are various problems that arise in connection with native pastors and our relation to them, and what we can do to help the church. These formed the subject matter of considerable deliberation. The economic problem involved and the factors involved in changing more from a Mission center to a Church center are two of the outstanding questions to be solved.

Another question that occupied the time in considerable discussion was that of extension. With several good openings in view, that might be closed soon, should we try to find a way of taking advantage of these opportunities in the face of the financial situation? There were a number of good points on both sides brought out, but it was finally left open. It was decided however to allow the Evangelistic Samaj to locate an Indian worker in the Likhma area if they desire to do so.

The appointment of committees was a task of some uncertainty owing to the fact that we do not know whether the furloughs due next spring can be granted or not. The following officers and committees were elected:

President, A. C. Brunk.

Secretary, J. N. Kaufman.

Evangelistic Board.—R. R. Smucker, M. C. Vogt, E. E. Miller, S. J. Hostetler, Elsie Kaufman, L. A. Kniss, A. C. Brunk. (One sister to be later appointed by the Managing Committee, and eight Indian brethren to be chosen by Conference.)

Publicity Committee.—S. J. Hostetler, Chairman; Ada Hartzler, Ruth Miller, G. J. Lapp, Mary A. Wenger.

Medical Committee.—G. D. Troyer, Chairman; Mary Wenger (Superintendent of Hospital), Eva Brunk, R. R. Smucker.

Auditing Committee.—Geo. H. Beare, Chairman; J. N. Kaufman, Dora Shantz.

Language and Literature Committee.—J. N. Kaufman, Chairman; Minnie Kanagy, G. J. Lapp, A. C. Brunk.

Continuation Committee.—J. N. Kaufman, Chairman; E. E. Miller, A. C. Brunk.

Educational Committee.—E. E. Miller, Chairman; G. J. Lapp (Manager of widows' home), Mary M. Good, Minnie Kanagy, M. C. Vogt, J. N. Kaufman.

Managing Committee.—A. C. Brunk, J. N. Kaufman, M. C. Vogt, G. D. Troyer, E. E. Miller, Ada Hartzler, Mary M. Good, S. J. Hostetler, G. H. Beare, R. R. Smucker, G. J. Lapp, L. A. Kniss.

Representatives.—To M. I. R. C. C. (Secretary Mission), Mission Board, J. D. Graber, Joint Examining Board, J. N. Kaufman.

It is most interesting to follow through the Gospels and mark the number of times where after some word or work of the Master's was spoken or done, we read, "That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet."—R. E. Neighbour, D. D.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

You never can tell when you send a word
Like an arrow shot from a bow
By an archer blind, be it cruel or kind,
Just where it may chance to go.
It may pierce the breast of your dearest friend,
Tipped with its poison or balm,
To a stranger's heart in life's great mart
It may carry its pain or its balm.

You never can tell when you do an act
Just what the result may be
But with every deed you are sowing a seed,
Though the harvest you may not see.
Each kindly act is an acorn dropped
In God's productive soil;
You may not know, but the tree shall grow
With shelter for those who toil.

You never can tell what your thought will do
In bringing you hate or love,
For thoughts are things, and their airy wings
Are swifter than carrier doves.
They follow the law of the universe—
Each thing must create its kind,
And they speed o'er the track to bring you back
Whatever went out from your mind.

THE NEW MISSION AT COATESVILLE, PA.

The new mission church at Coatesville was opened for services the first time over the week end of Nov. 12, 13. The services were interesting and the audiences interested. Bishop J. A. Kennel was the first speaker. Others appearing on the program during the two days were Ray Shenk, Jacob Hershey, J. L. Rutt, John S. Hess, Ira Landis, Stoner Krady, J. H. Mellinger, John H. Mellinger, John W. Weaver, Amos B. Stoltzfus, Amos S. Horst, Abram L. Martin, A. K. Mast.

The building is made of brick and is 56 x 36 (church annex). The mission home is continuous with the church part of the building. Seats accommodate over 200 people comfortably. On the opening days this accommodation proved far too small so a loud-speaker was set up in the basement, which also was well-filled.

One of the last official acts of our departed Treasurer, Bro. Eli G. Reist, was assisting in the selection of the site on which to build. This was on Nov. 3, 1931. While Bro. Reist expressed his preference on that date, the final choice was made on March 25, 1932, formally selecting this lot. This selection was made by a joint Mission Board Committee and a local committee. There then arose a legal delay in transfer of title due to a bank closing. On July 14 final settlement was made for the lot, and on July 26 the ground-breaking was held. So many brethren responded that the day of ground-breaking saw the completion of the excavation. Two days later the foundation was laid.

Excavating for Coatesville Mission

The building took ninety days. 183 different people donated labor. There were 322 donated labor days or parts of days.

The building cost $9,257.17, of which the Conestoga, Millwood, and Maple Grove congregations raised and pledged $3,867.23.

Bro. Hershey of Lititz, who was the contractor in charge, donated his time. He travelled over 2,500 miles going to and from the work. Bro. A. K. Mast, Cochranville, Pa., the representative of the local committee, travelled over 1,500 miles.

Of course none of these brethren would desire to have statements made about them but we think that it is no more than is due to here remark that the brotherhood should be very thankful that we have brethren in this day and age who are willing to give time and means, and sacrifice personal interests, all for the work of the Lord. Let us thank the Lord that such interest still remains among His professed followers. Evil will the day be when such interest dies.

The brethren are thankful for the mission plant. Bro. Jno. E. Kennel, the S. S. Sup't., remarked that they found out on this first Sunday that the children were quieter than they had thought, the chairs had been making the noise. Let us join in the thanks that these children have gotten better quarters.

Bro. and Sister David Kennel live in the mission home, Bro. Kennel having been appointed as superintendent. Bros. John E. Kennel and John E. Kauffman are the Sunday school superintendents. May the Lord continue to bless the work at Coatesville.—Adapted from an article in the Missionary Messenger.

MENNONITE GENERAL CONFERENCE

By Harry A. Diener

In the Year Book for 1932 Bro. Simon Gingerich of Wayland, Iowa, Secretary of General Conference gave a very good description of its seventeenth biennial session. Plans are now being made for the next meeting in the last week of August of this year, at Hesston, Kans. We, the Mennonite churches of Kansas, think it a rare privilege to have the conference to come here, since it has never been this far west before, and we wish hereby heartily to invite our brethren and sisters to come and meet with us. In spite of the fact that our congregations in Kansas are not as large or as near to each other as in some other states, yet we hope comfortably to accommodate all who come.

Too often, I feel, in thinking and talking of General Conference, we consider roads, meals, tents, crowds, autos, etc. These have their right place and must receive due consideration, if the conference is to be at its best, but not more than what is due them. A few years ago when a number of Brethren were asked to give a report of their impressions at General Conference most of their reports consisted in the large things they saw. Are not such things as winning souls, encouraging saints, withstanding sin, promoting the cause of Christ through the Church, Christian fellowship, and honoring the Lord in our assembly of much more importance? This is a good time now, as we are looking forward toward the next meeting, to get ourselves in such condition that the Lord can bless us with blessings that are much better than the natural things of life. To receive the food that feeds the soul, to drink the water that satisfies the longing heart, to see more clearly the path that leads to life, to enjoy the fellowship with the Lord and His children, is, as Paul puts it, "sitting together in heavenly places with Christ." This is one of earth's rare blessings, for in heaven we expect to enjoy such fellowship continually.

Let us also remember that Satan is still doing as he did in the days of Job, when the "sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord." He will be there to promote all the disturbance that is possible, to draw away the minds from the truth, to suppress conviction, to encourage others to quench the Spirit, to sow discord among brethren, to attempt compromises with sin, in every way to hinder the work of the Lord. Here the word of the Lord fits in well, "Neither give place to the devil." We also know that it is our blessed privilege to ask the Lord to be with us and enable us to detect and resist the attempts of the enemy.

It is hard to estimate the value and blessing that General Conference has been to the Church. Truly it has not solved all our problems, neither has it brought about ideal conditions, nor has it established confidence among the brethren in the degree that we would like to see it, but when we think of how it has unified the efforts of the Church, in providing good literature for the Sunday school and home; in caring for the needy, sick, homeless and aged; in promoting Christian training for our young people and in spreading the Gospel even to other lands; we feel to praise the Lord for what He has done for us through the General Conference. And just now, while we are thinking about problems, conditions, and confidence, we are grateful for what has been accomplished along these lines. We may well ask ourselves, where would we be with our difficulties if it were not for the effort that has been made to overcome them? At times it appears that some think that Conference should by resolutions and decisions solve our problems and change unfavorable conditions. Discussions, decisions, and resolutions have their useful place. The representatives of the early church met at Jerusalem and discussed their problem, circumcision, and after there had been much disputing they came to a conclusion, wrote out their decisions, and these were delivered to the churches "for to keep." If there could be more unity in the keeping I am sure that as a church we would enjoy more blessings, and the Lord would receive much more glory. May we always intelligently face our problems, charitably discuss them, and diligently labor to solve them.

What may we do to make the eighteenth session of General Conference the greatest success? First of all, let us faithfully pray that the Lord may direct and bless the work to His glory and praise—pray privately, pray publicly, pray individually, pray in groups, pray effectively, pray in faith believing. Our Savior says, "If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it" (Jno. 14:14). Let us pray for the moderators, the committees, the speakers, the listeners, all the congregations, organizations and activities affected by its work. Dear reader, you may not be permitted to attend the meeting, you may feel that you have no active part in the work, but here is a part in which you may be active, you may pray. Will you? "Men ought always to pray."

This is the work of the Lord, a great work, too great a work to be undertaken and accomplished by man's strength and wisdom. God promises to give wisdom liberally. Jesus says, "When he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth" (Jno. 16:13). So may we rely upon the Lord for wisdom and guidance. While we are looking for and receiving blessings, may we also be willing to be a blessing to others. Let us constantly keep before us the welfare of souls. As ministers, we need to have our souls enriched by fellowshipping with the Lord and His children; we need more definite convictions in the principles of God's Word, and a living zeal faithfully to fulfill the mission to which the Lord through the Church has called us. As a laity may we be helped to live out the teachings of the Bible and to "grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior," and may lost souls be helped into the kingdom of Jesus Christ.

ESSENTIALS TO CHRISTIAN PROGRESS

By J. Irvin Lehman

Progress! How inspiring, how thrilling the thought, whether we think of it as contrasting the stagnant pool with the sparkling, rippling, progressing brooklet, or as in pity we see the physical body of the child that has been dwarfed by disease or accident in contrast with the youth growing in the freshness, and fulness of a normally developing body. In like manner are we delighted when we see Christian progress and growth rather than retrogression, stagnation, and death. We like to see progress, whether we are thinking of the individual, institutional, or conference aspect of the church. We wish to give a fourfold statement and discussion of the "Essentials to Christian Progress." They are—

First, A Living, Vital Union with Christ.

Second, A Spiritual and Workable Understanding among the Members of the Body of Christ.

Third, A Heaven-born Vision of the Progress to be Made.

Fourth, A Consecration and Coördination of all the Talents of the Church.

1. A Spiritual, Vital Union with Christ. Life overcomes inertia and starts things moving. Without true spiritual life there can be no true spiritual progress, either in the individual member or in the whole body of Christ. Jesus said (John 15:5), "Without me ye can do nothing" so without, or more properly, apart from a union with Christ there can be no real advancement. The falling limb, the headless, jumping foul, the bursting bomb are some of the forms of activity in the material world that do not speak of progress, but rather, they speak loudly of death. So our activity, whether it be in the graces of the Christian life, such as almsgiving, prayer, fasting, or testimony; or in our group work, such as the mission, publication, or educational work of the church, will speak only of death, unless it is the result of our vital union with Christ. We have a striking scriptural illustration of this point in Acts 19:13-16. The sons of Sceva had a good purpose in mind in casting out evil spirits. They also used a proper name when they spoke the name of Jesus, but they shamefully failed because they were not one with Christ. On the other hand Paul could enter a new continent—Europe—a foreign city—Philippi—and in spite of imprisonment build a church, because Christ was with him and the Holy Spirit was his power. May we flee to the mountains and be alone with God. May we shut the door of our closet and commune with Him. Then, abiding in Him, we may bear fruit, be purged, and bear more fruit, and finally glorify our God by bearing much fruit.

2. We need a Scriptural and Workable Understanding among the Members of the Body of Christ. The Word says that "we are workers together." Our fathers have said, "Conference is necessary." The disciples were "with one accord in one place," and there was progress. We need to strengthen our conferences so that we may "consider" the matters relating to the work of the Church. It seems evident that a lack of getting together on the part of Christian workers results in misunderstanding, suspicion, and jealousy that grows until organizations are disrupted, individuals are discouraged, and the Lord's name is dishonored. Any grouping together of workers for personal advantage that springs of love of position or honor, or that comes from a love of material gain, dishonors God and hinders the progress of the Church. It was motives kindred to these that united the Pharisees, Sadducees, and Herodians in their opposition to Christ, and caused them to go to any length of sin to accomplish their end and protect each other in their wickedness. May the Lord deliver us from any such experiences to-day. On the other hand, the conference, as recorded in Acts 15, resulted in a better understanding between the Jew and Gentile Christians, and real progress was made in the Church. Our church fathers got together in Europe and the resulting Eighteen Articles of Faith, as we have them, were a step forward. We need to do the same thing to-day, turn our hearts and prayers heavenward, our eyes to the Bible, and submit our wills to the Lord that He might have His way with us. When a Paul plants, and an Apollos waters, then God gives the increase.

3. We Need a Heaven-born Vision of the Progress to be Made. "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" should be the heart cry of every member of the Church. "Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields," and take the Lord's word for it that it is ripe for the harvest. Our first task is witnessing. Our witnessing must be of Christ and to all the world, with a logical progression in the work. Acts 1:8. Oh, what a pull to the Lord and a push to our task a heaven-born vision of the compassion of our Lord and the value of lost souls brings to the Christian worker! Christ saw the lone sheep on the mountain and went out to find it. Our mission is not to educate the world, not to civilize the world, not to lift the world from its present dilemma in society, politics, and industry; but our mission is to evangelize the world, and win those who gladly receive the word to Christ. Who will answer, "Here am I; send me?"

4. For the Greatest Progress We Must Consecrate and Coördinate all the Talents in the Church. In this we have reference to both personal abilities and possessions. Many are the talents that are hidden in a napkin. Who will be a Barnabas and go to searching for a Paul, and get him to his task? How many Antiochs should be laying on hands and sending out men? How many of us should suffer the loss of all things, and press forward like Paul? See Phil. 3. Instead, many of us have lost much by giving our possessions to money "sharks." Some talents are buried, and sometimes we work together as described in I Cor. 1:11, 12. It is when every member in the whole body is functioning properly and doing his or her bit that the work will progress according to our Lord's wish.

Finally, we should make haste slowly enough that we are sure we are progressing in the upward way, following the finger boards of the "Thus saith the Lord," and the principles He has given in His Word. Then, as a mighty army, with the raised "shield of faith," quenching all the fiery darts of the enemy, and the unsheathed "sword" of the Word, we may go forth at the command of our "Captain," battling the forces of His and our enemy, and bringing Him much glory in victory.

HOW WE ARE SUCCEEDING IN OUR CHURCH EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

A Review of the Past School Year in Our Church Schools

By Harold S. Bender

The question asked in the title of this article might better be answered by some one not directly associated with the educational work of the Church, since it involves an evaluation of the work being done, and possibly a more impartial estimate could be secured from an "out-sider." However, in a discussion of the actual working of our program under present conditions, there may be some justification for assigning the topic to a worker in one of our Church schools. The question will be answered from four points of view: (1) Financial success; (2) educational success; (3) spiritual success; and (4) success in Church service.

Are We Succeeding Financially?

School finances are naturally made more difficult in a time of depression, such as we have now. As carried on in the past years, the educational program of the Church has required financial help from the Church in addition to the normal income of the schools from the students. This help has been necessary to provide for the construction of buildings, repair and improvement of the plants and facilities, aid of deserving but poor students, and coverage of deficits. In the past, also, funds have not been sufficient to meet these needs as specified so that consequently each one of the schools has accumulated a debt, which is approximately equal for all the schools, that of the Eastern Mennonite School being somewhat less than that for each of the other two. In a time of depression such as we have now, interest and capital payments on these debts become increasingly burdensome, and handicap the regular school finances. Donations from the friends and supporters of the schools throughout the Church and elsewhere have measurably declined during the past year. The financial reports for Hesston and Goshen indicate a small deficit in the operating expenses of the schools, while the Eastern Mennonite School report reveals that it was fortunate enough to be able to close the year without a deficit. From this point of view Goshen and Hesston did not succeed financially last year, since it was the plan of both schools to close without a deficit. It is only fair to say that, had the promised and expected donations held up to the goal set, both schools would have been able to close without a deficit. But the fact remains that in spite of good intentions, and in spite of rigid economies, these two schools failed during this past year to meet the difficult situation, and added slightly to the accumulated deficits.

In the light of the difficult financial situation, plans have been made and the stakes are set to prevent this from occurring again. The dropping of the college department at Hesston for the year, and the curtailment of the program at Goshen together with the favorable enrollment at Hesston and the very gratifying increase in enrollment at Goshen prophesy success for this program during the present year. The maintenance of the good enrollment at the Eastern Mennonite School points to the continuation of the success of that institution in meeting the challenge of the financial situation. It should be said that the experience of the schools and the Board of Education in these trying times has proved decisively and conclusively the value of the Endowment Fund. Without the income from invested endowment of the schools, an almost impossible situation would have faced the Board of Education. As soon as better times return we must again "lay by in store" by way of endowment for future "hard times."

Are We Succeeding Educationally?

The Educational program at the Eastern Mennonite School has been maintained unimpaired. Progress has been made in accreditment of the teacher-training program with the Virginia State Board. At Goshen, the program also has been maintained unimpaired, and likewise progress has been made in securing further accreditment for the teacher-training program with the State of Ohio, and by the inauguration of a two-year elementary teacher-training course with a diploma for graduation. The Bible School at Goshen has also been reorganized and established on a stronger basis. Progress has also been made in the Ontario Mennonite Bible School by strengthening the course through the addition of more advanced subjects. At Hesston the dropping of the college department has been a serious loss. Other departments are being maintained unimpaired. It is to be hoped that it need not be long before the college department can be restored. Educationally we can say on the whole that progress has been made. A number of instructors have secured advanced training and degrees, laboratories and libraries have been strengthened, and each year of added experiences should increase the educational effectiveness of the institutions. The total enrollment of our three schools was larger at the opening of school this fall than it was the year before.

Are We Succeeding Spiritually?

This question is naturally one that is very difficult to answer satisfactorily. Spiritual life cannot be evaluated by outward measures alone. It is also practically impossible for an individual who is directly acquainted with only one school to be able to estimate the spiritual success of the other institutions. Apparently the spiritual work of the institutions is making progress. The revival meetings and special Christian life conferences were reported to have been very successful. The student organizations and meetings were carried on as before. The spiritual interest has increased, and more interest was shown in mission Sunday school work, in the revival meetings, in more consistent living, in greater loyalty to Christ and the Church. We believe there is much reason for encouragement and much cause to praise the Lord for His evident blessing and guidance. But there is much still to be done, and certainly none of us would be willing to say that we are satisfied or that we believe we have really succeeded spiritually as we might have or as we should have.

Are We Succeeding in Our Service to the Church?

Here again different minds may be of different opinions. The writer can only venture his own opinion. Personally I am not satisfied that we are yet rendering the service to the Church through our schools that we should. At the same time there are signs that we are making some progress. Apart from the service of the product of the schools, that is, service of the graduates, there is a service which the faculty can and should render, according to the talents of each one. Should not the teachers and instructors in our schools, in every case, be able to serve the Church directly as well as indirectly through teaching in the school or through service in the local congregation. There should be an increase in the writing of articles and books, in contributions to historical research, in helping to understand the problems of the day and contributing to their solution, in direct service in the way of speaking and committee work, in example and instruction in consistent living and loyalty to the faith and principles of the Church. There should be such an increase in this service so that throughout the Church there can be a feeling that in the faculties of the schools can be found servants of the Church who can be put to direct and frequent use in the work of the Church. Not only the teachers themselves can do more and better work, but also the Church should awaken more and more to the possibilities of using talent that has possibly not yet been called upon.

There is also need for a closer coöperation in making use of the product of the schools in the service of the Church. The writer cannot refrain from speaking his conviction on this point. There is no justification for spending much money, labor, and prayers in the educational program of the Church and for the training of workers for the Church, unless careful and conscientious attention is given to the problem of making use of trained workers at the posts for which they are fitted and where they are needed. In dealing with this problem, much wisdom and prayerful consideration and planning are necessary. There must be a growing conviction and a growing practice of the application of that conviction to actual situations, so that when institutions, conferences, and congregations are in need of trained workers, they will look for help to the places where such workers are being prepared. We believe that progress has been made in this line, but also that more progress needs to be made. If there are those who are fitted they should be used.

An encouraging feature of our educational work is the growth of the Winter Bible Schools. Since a separate article on this subject appears elsewhere in the Year Book we shall give this phase of the work only passing mention.

Have We Been Succeeding?

We can sincerely say that distinct progress has been made. However, in some lines there is retrogression, and in others slow progress has been made toward the ideal. In some points not mentioned in the above outline and analysis, much could be said of success and failure. We have serious needs for the coming year and years. We need financial help, we need stronger Bible School programs, we need a deeper consciousness of the need for trained workers in the Church, we need a more unified program for the entire Church, so that we can have more effective coöperation and greater harmony and unity. We need a closer tie-up between the winter Bible school and the full year institutions. We should develop a program so that students can take what amounts to a year's work in the local winter Bible schools such as those at Kitchener and Johnstown, and then by taking an additional year of work at Hesston, Goshen, or the Eastern Mennonite School complete a well-rounded Bible training course for a two-year diploma. We need closer coöperation between school and Church, board and conferences, missions and schools. We need——, we need——, we need many things. We need wisdom, love, sympathy, prayers, coöperation, help, and the blessing of Almighty God, so that next year's report can show a still better balance sheet of our educational work.

OUR WINTER BIBLE SCHOOLS

By Curtis C. Cressman

We are reminded of the words of Mordecai addressed to Queen Esther, "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" One is impressed that our Bible Schools have appeared on the scene through the providence of God at this particular time. It is gratifying to notice how this work has developed from humble beginnings, in a normal, non-spectacular way to its present extent.

We praise the Lord that during the past forty years different individuals interested themselves in Bible schools. We are glad that they persevered even under discouraging circumstances at times.

Our Bible Schools, as represented by our three Church schools located at Goshen, Hesston, and Harrisonburg, the Ontario Mennonite Bible School, and the Johnstown Bible School, are in our mind playing a very vital part in our Church life. In this time of anxiety and uncertainty such institutions are surely supplying a very evident need in giving sound Biblical instruction to so large a number of our young people from year to year.

We are glad that there has been a general demand for Biblical training. Our Bible Schools are the result of this. Although we do not wish to minimize the value of other education, since other training is essential even in Bible Schools, we would like to emphasize the fundamental place of Bible training.

Humble beginnings characterize all our schools. In most cases one would not have guessed from the beginning the present extent of influence. The history of our three regular church schools is quite generally known. Suffice it to say that in each of them the Bible School is given a large place, and all students are encouraged to take at least some Bible work. Although we have no available statistics, we believe that only a very small percentage of students passing through these institutions have not been directly benefited by the Bible Schools. This, indeed, represents a large field of influence. Besides this, in each institution a short Bible term is held annually. In this way another group of students is reached who can spare only a short time during the winter for concentrated Bible study. The influence through this group during the history of the schools is of no small proportion. We are much interested in the special effort that has been made in recent years to strengthen the Bible departments in each of these institutions.

Now turn with me to the Ontario Mennonite Bible School located at Kitchener, Ontario. Personally we are best acquainted with this institution. For twenty-five years this little work has continued. It began as a four or six weeks' Bible term, was thus carried on until less than ten years ago a demand came for a larger term. This was recognized by giving eight weeks' work for a few years; since then it has developed into a twelve weeks' term. The school has enjoyed a wide sphere of influence in this conference district, a large majority of our young people having attended at some time. Although we do not aim to draw students away from our other schools, our neighboring states are contributing a liberal number each year. Well over one thousand have enjoyed the advantages of this institution during its existence.

The Johnstown Bible School located at Johnstown, Pa., the youngest of the institutions herein mentioned, has at this writing entered upon its twelfth year. This school has also enjoyed splendid support from the surrounding districts. We believe it, too, reaches a large number of the young people of the district it represents.

Last winter a new school was begun at the Central Church near Elida, Ohio, with a two weeks' term. Several other schools were operated in former years, but have been discontinued. This year a new school was opened at Archbold, Ohio, with a two weeks' term.

Do Bible Schools pay? is a question we shall now endeavor to answer. Personally we are convinced that they do. By observation we learn that most young people arrive at a time when many questions confront them, especially along spiritual lines. At this opportune time our Bible Schools come to aid with the teachings of the Word of God.

The Word, after all, is necessary to establish them in the faith. Many of the questions, if answered in the light of God's Word, remain forever settled. The Word becomes real to them and they learn to appreciate it as the guiding standard in life. As this is realized in their lives many questions of discipline in the Church will become less serious, our local Sunday School and Young People's Bible Meeting activities will be more efficiently handled, thus benefiting the Church in a large way. We are not assuming here that all problems will vanish by this method, but we are sure that an intelligent understanding of the Word of God and its application to the individual life is the best curb against sin. We must continue to indoctrinate our young people.

Some might suggest that these results can be obtained through regular Church activities. In some instances this may be true. However, the Bible School has one large advantage, in this that over a period of time the student concentrates along these lines, thus getting results otherwise impossible.

What of the future? If the Lord tarries we hope to see the present institutions enjoying the continued support of the Church in students, means, and prayers. We hope to see each one enlarge its field of influence for the Lord. This is not all. We see opportunities for new Bible Schools to open. A number of large Mennonite communities exist where a local Bible School could do untold good without any financial burden. No state standards need be met. We would suggest that Church leaders in such districts seize these opportunities ere they pass and great blessings are lost. Many young people will not leave home a considerable distance to attend school, but would immediately patronize one in their home conference district or community. May we pray definitely for God's guidance over our present institutions and ask the Lord to direct the opening of others as He sees best; and may He who rules above ever keep our Bible Schools firmly grounded on the solid Rock, Christ Jesus.

CALLED HOME

By Daniel Kauffman

The year 1932 took an unusually heavy toll of faithful workers from our ranks. And while this always means sorrow on the part of those left behind, there is connected with this sorrow a feeling of joy that our loved ones have been gathered to their eternal rest in glory, and that while their spirits have been called home to glory, the uplifting influences of their lives still remain.

Space will not admit of a recital of all the faithful in Christ Jesus who are sometimes referred to as "Church leaders," who during the past year have answered the summons, but we thought it might be of interest to our readers to submit a few biographical sketches, taken from the obituary notices as they appeared in the columns of the Gospel Herald from time to time. These will appear in the order of their being called home.

Solomon J. Swartzendruber (1856-1932) was born in Garrett Co., Md., and died at his home in Pigeon, Mich., after a service of more than forty years as minister and bishop in the Conservative A. M. Church. He was ordained to the ministry in 1889 and a year later was ordained a bishop. Kansas, Iowa, and Michigan were the scenes of his ministerial labors, but his voice reached to the entire field of labor in his own church, and he was held in high esteem by those who knew him best, whether in his own or sister churches. He was a recognized leader among his own people, and a faithful attendant at the biennial meetings of the Mennonite General Conference. He died March 1, 1932.

John B. Senger (1850-1932) spent practically his whole life in Lancaster Co., Pa., but his voice was not confined to that field alone. As an evangelist he was quite successful, and his zeal for the salvation of the lost was equaled by his loyalty to the Church and his burden that both old and young be rooted and grounded in the faith. He was ordained to the ministry in 1900, and for thirty-two years he zealously proclaimed the Gospel. The past few winters he spent in Florida, where he labored diligently for the advancement of the cause of Christ, especially at the Mennonite Mission in Tampa. He died at Waynesboro, Va., March 15, 1932, while on his way home from Florida.

David Bergey (1845-1932) was another pillar of faith whose taking away is keenly felt by those left behind. In 1889 he was ordained a deacon in the Blenheim Church near New Dundee, Ont., which office he filled to the end of his life. He was an aggressive worker, a pioneer in Sunday school work, and served the Ontario Conference as secretary for many years. He died March 25, 1932.

Adam H. Brenneman (1843-1932) spent practically his whole lifetime in Wayne Co., Ohio, where he served as a deacon for five years and as a minister for more than 50 years. Faithfulness was his watchword, and he was gathered with the fathers at a ripe old age. He died June 14, 1932.

Allen B. Christophel (1892-1932) of Goshen, Ind., was called home in the prime of life, yet in the brief span of service allotted to him he had served the Church in a number of ways. He was a school teacher a few years; later he worked in the Mennonite Publishing House a number of years, where his services were interrupted by his being drafted into the army. Here he manifested his nonresistant faith to the extent that he was sentenced as a prisoner of the Lord to the U. S. penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans. Being released at the close of the World War, he returned to Scottdale, continued there a few years more and then returned to his home in Indiana, where he was ordained to the ministry in 1924 in the Yellow Creek Church. He labored faithfully in the ministry until he was called home July 20, 1932.

Emanuel A. Mast (1856-1932) was a pillar of faith in the Church of the Indiana-Michigan district. He was ordained to the ministry at Kokomo, Ind., in 1879, and later was ordained as bishop. His record is one of unfailing fidelity to the cause of Christ and the Church, and his passing was mourned by those left behind. He died July 26, 1932.

Eli G. Reist (1855-1932), a faithful worker in the Lancaster Conference district, is best known to the Church at large by his services as treasurer of several Mission Boards and his efficient service wherever placed. He died July 28, 1932. Though his labors were confined largely to the work of the Church in Lancaster Co., Pa., his services as the eastern treasurer of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities endeared him to the hearts of the brotherhood in many parts of the Gospel field.

Amos I. Yoder (1866-1932) was born in Wayne Co., Ohio, and died at West Liberty, Ohio, Nov. 27, 1932. In early childhood he was brought to West Liberty, where he gave his heart to the Lord and became an active worker for the cause. He was ordained to the ministry in Tennessee in 1895, to the office of bishop in Iowa, in about ten years later, spent a few years in Texas as a bishop in the Missouri-

Kansas Conference, and later returned to West Liberty, where he spent the last twenty-one years of his life. His was a busy life, marked for both faithfulness and efficiency. He served frequently as moderator of conferences, member of important committees, and his voice invariably carried helpful counsels and sound doctrine.

Amos G. Kauffman (1865-1932) was a deacon in the Lancaster Conference district (home church, East Petersburg) for 34 years, president of the board of directors of the Old People's Home near Lancaster, Pa., since its organization, and his services were much sought after as a leader of song in special meetings of various kinds. As a counsellor he was safe and sound, and his death, Dec. 11, 1932, left a vacancy that is hard to fill. Though his labors were almost wholly confined to his home conference district, his influence extended to other fields.

Lewis J. Heatwole (1852-1932), well known writer, almanac calculator, Mennonite preacher and bishop, was called from time to eternity just before the last year came to a close. He was ordained to the ministry in Weavers Church near Harrisonburg, Va., in May, 1887, and five years later ordained as bishop in Cass Co., Mo. A few years later he was compelled, because of health conditions, to return to Virginia where he spent the remainder of his life. Few men touched their fellow men in as many ways as did our departed brother. As a writer he is remembered for his many contributions to religious and secular papers, for his well-known books on religious and historical subjects, and for his discussion on scientific themes along the line of his investigations. As an almanac calculator he furnished material for as many as sixty almanacs in the United States and Canada. As a minister and bishop he was esteemed by his fellow-workers in his home field as well as in other conference districts. As a counsellor his services were prized in conferences and other public meetings, and in numerous committees on which he served at different times. He died at his home near Dale Enterprise, Va., Dec. 26, 1932.

Of these, as well as other faithful pilgrims gathered to their fathers during the past year, we can say in the language of inspiration, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." May God so direct our lives, and may our lives be so kept upon the altar of His service, that when the call from time to eternity comes our way we may hear the welcome plaudit, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit. . . ."

ACTIVITIES OF THE MENNONITE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

By Levi Mumaw

The Mennonite Central Committee has been permitted to render a real service to a considerable group of refugees during the year. In recounting what has been accomplished we are not immune to the fact that much more should have been done and that many have suffered for whom no touch of sympathy could be extended. The greater part of our effort has been directed to the supplemental needs of the Fernheim colony established in Paraguay and the movement of Mennonite refugees from Harbin, China, to Paraguay.

On the return of Bro. Orie O. Miller, last November, from his trip to Brazil and Paraguay in the interests of the colonists located in these countries, through our help and encouragement, their future needs were carefully considered, and a general budget applying to these needs was adopted. The total amount needed to bring them to where it was considered possible for them to become self-supporting amounted to about $12,000.00. The budget included supplemental food for the colonists up to April 1, 1932, support to school teachers, the sick fund, and other minor items. We are glad to report that nearly all of this budget has been met out of the contributions that have come to the Committee. The original groups included in this budget are now practically on their own resources, and no effort is being made to give any further food support. There is, however, an opportunity to give them aid in their evangelistic effort, and care for the needy and sick.

The past year's crops started out very encouragingly, but the latter rains did not come as needed, and much of the first crop suffered. Grasshoppers also hindered the crop in certain villages. The second crop had more rain and was considerably better than the first. We believe the colonists will be able to adjust their planting more advantageously after they are better familiar with the normal rainfall and condition of weather for the seasons.

At the time of Bro. Miller's return from South America, serious conditions were facing the large group of Mennonite refugees at Harbin, China. After a year's detention at that place and with no definite solution to their emigration problems, the Chinese government issued an edict to the effect that if they would not be moved to some other country before March 1, 1932, they would be returned to Russia. The results of this to the refugees were well understood in this country. Considerable funds had been gathered for their rescue, but no definite plans had been developed for such a course. Attempts had been made to move them to the United States and Mexico. At certain times the prospects for such efforts seemed encouraging and possible. There were not enough funds on hand to undertake such a large task. Accordingly efforts had been made to secure help from the Nansen Relief organization and other general relief organizations by way of grants or loans, but these efforts failed.

On December 11, 1931, a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Mennonite Central Committee was called to meet at Newton, Kans., for the purpose of receiving Bro. Miller's report on his trip to Brazil and Paraguay and for the consideration of the further needs of the colonists. A number of brethren serving on the different Mennonite relief organizations were invited to meet with the Committee. The possibilities of settling the Harbin refugees in the United States and Mexico were given due consideration at this meeting also. On hearing the reports from the Committee working on the Mexico proposition, it was decided that it would be useless to try to keep open the option for land in Mexico for this purpose, since the original option had expired and a demand was made for a considerable down payment for its renewal. This decision was reached through the fact that our efforts to secure additional funds for this purpose had failed.

After hearing Bro. Miller's report on the conditions in the Chaco of Paraguay and the possibilities for further settlement by our people, it was considered advantageous to attempt the moving of some of the Harbin refugees to that country. Accordingly a special resolution was passed, asking the Mennonite Central Committee to undertake the task and to hasten the work of bringing relief to these unfortunate people. The work was undertaken. A survey was made of the amount of funds available at that time in the hands of our several treasurers. It was found that about $20,000.00 was available for this purpose. After further attempts for help from other sources an additional amount of $10,000.00 was promised by the Central Bureau of Relief of the Evangelical Churches of Europe through their New York office. The Nansen Relief organization at Geneva, Switzerland, offered its service in securing the best possible transportation rates from Harbin to Buenos Aires, Argentina, and in addition offered to give the refugees credit on their passage from Harbin to Shanghai.

Through the assistance of Bro. Benj. H. Unruh in Germany final plans were made for the undertaking of the task. The Nansen Relief organization offered to bring the refugees through the war zone in China, where the Chinese and Japanese armies were contending for the occupation of Shanghai and Manchuria, and to deliver them to the care of the Mennonite Central Committee in France for further transportation to Paraguay. Definite rates were offered for transportation which were accepted at a time when serious changes in steamship rates were being threatened. The final word for action was given, and sufficient funds, $23,000.00, were deposited in Geneva, Switzerland, for the transportation of three hundred souls from Shanghai to Buenos Aires. Immediately following this, the Nansen Relief Organization took up the task of bringing the refugees from Harbin to Shanghai for transportation on a regular sailing steamer from that port to Marseilles, France, through a special representative appointed to the task. Our first report on this effort was received in the form of a cable from Bro. Unruh in Germany advising us that 370 souls had left Harbin instead of 300. Our next report came from Bro. Unruh in the form of a cable advising that the Steamship lines from Shanghai to Marseilles demanded immediate guarantees for the extra 70 persons taken on board at Shanghai or they would be landed at Hongkong, China. This would have been a tragedy. Accordingly instructions were given to guarantee the payment of their passage. No reason had as yet been received as to why these additional emigrants were in the group.

A later written report from Bro. Isaac at Harbin revealed the fact that a misunderstanding of our instructions was responsible for the sending of the 70 additional persons. While our instructions by cable to him called for 50 families or 300 souls, he understood that we were giving permission for 300 full fares while a number of half-fares were in the group and the additional 70 persons would make only the 300 full fares. This misunderstanding caused considerable difficulty in meeting the needs of these people. A careful survey of costs had demanded that not more than 300 souls be allowed to sail on this particular transport, and in this group it was estimated that nearly one-third would be half-fares, or children under 12 years of age.

This incident, however, finally made it possible for 20 more families to be rescued than had originally been planned for. While additional burdens have come with it, there is consolation in the fact that these have also been rescued. On arrival at Marseilles it was found that two families would need to be detained there on account of sickness. The remainder of the group continued their journey across country by rail and embarked from La Havre, France for the lap to Buenos Aires. On arrival at this port they were transferred to a River boat and finally landed at Puerto Casado early in May of this year. The group was landed without any further losses. The two families left at Marseilles buried one of the heads of the families and the others were permitted to follow their brethren and later reached the colony in good health. Six additional refugees from the refugee home at Moelln, Germany, joined the group at Havre.

Provisions had been made for the group in three villages in the Chaco. A fourth was opened for the additional group. Cows and oxen were provided by Casado Limited at Puerto Casado, as for the other groups, and with the equipment that had been purchased in Germany, together with galvanized roofing for their houses, they have no doubt by this time become well established in their new homes. We will need to make exceptions, however, for the 20 additional families for which equipment must yet be furnished as soon as funds are available for this purpose. Temporary arrangements have been made thus far.

A recent letter from Bro. Franz Heinrichs, leader of the colony, informs us that the state of the colonists is quite satisfactory. A central town has been planned, and buildings have been erected for the purpose of taking care of the saw mill, grist mill, oil press, hospital, etc., for the colony. This central village is called Philadelphia, for the city in America through which their major assistance has come by way of grants for land and other considerations.

While our task is not finished, we look back over the year's activities with a feeling of satisfaction and courage for the future in the leading of Divine Providence in all these efforts. We look forward with that continued faith and trust that additional funds will be supplied to meet the further needs of the Harbin colonists for their first year's residence in the Chaco. This amounts to $6.25 per family per month, or $500.00 per month for the Harbin group. They will need this support until May of 1933. Additional funds will be needed for the equipment of the 20 families and for their transportation, the first requiring $75.00 per family and the latter about $7,000.-00. The Committee solicits your help in meeting these needs during the next six months.

It will be a matter of historical interest to coming generations to find that it has been possible to transport these people from Harbin, China, to Puerto Casado, Paraguay, requiring over two months' time to make the trip under present-day facilities for the low sum of $117.00 per person. Children under 12 years of age required one-half this rate.

There is great safety in the perils God chooses for us. "Is it safe to work among the lepers?" was asked of Sam Higginbottom of India, whose missionary service has been so blessed to the outcasts whom Christ asked us especially to remember and heal.

"Yes," was the answer, "it is safer to work among the lepers, if it's my job, than to work anywhere else." A place of safety outside of God's will is too risky a place for any child of God to contemplate.—Unknown.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH —RETROSPECTIVE, CIRCUMSPECTIVE, PROSPECTIVE

By A. J. Metzler

Do we realize that the Sunday school work in the Mennonite Church will soon have reached its first centennial? Although records of the early history of Sunday school work in our church are difficult to obtain, yet the approximate time that interest and activity in this work began is quite well known.

As early as 1840 Bro. Nicholas Johnson, of Masontown, Pa., gathered a group in his home on Sunday afternoons for the purpose of teaching the Bible. After a while this was discontinued for a period, but was later taken up in the church, and has continued until the present time.

Possibly the second movement in Bible teaching which was the beginning of our present Sunday school system in the Mennonite Church was at Vineland, Ont., several years later. This, too, seems to have encountered stormy seas in its early history, having been discontinued for a while.

Of course, the schools which can trace their history for nearly a century are the exceptions. Forty years would be more nearly the average life of the majority of them. The decade from 1890 to 1900 saw more schools open than any other similiar period of time. Then, too, there are schools doing good work now that were founded only twenty or less years ago.

Now what does this history represent? That cannot be accurately answered. God alone knows it all. But some things are evident. Many look back to the Sunday school as the place where they received a knowledge of those Scriptures which brought a consciousness of their lost condition and a realization of their need of Christ as Savior. There are those who received their first training and experience in Sunday school work, who later were called by God and the Church to places of responsibility and leadership in the Church. Then too there are a goodly number of congregations to-day which trace their origin to a mission Sunday school, begun possibly in a home or a schoolhouse. So we see that God has been pleased to use the Sunday school as an evangelistic and missionary agency, as a training school for Christian workers, and as an extension department of the Church.

Now let us take a look at the Sunday school work as it is to-day in the Mennonite Church, at home and abroad. The figures we shall use are approximate. However, we feel sure they are nearly accurate.

We have at present a few more than 400 Sunday schools. In these schools we find over 62,000 scholars being taught by more than 5,000 teachers. If you are interested in figures you will see that each year these teachers are giving a total of more than 130,000 hours of Bible instruction.

These more than 400 schools are scattered throughout the U. S., Canada, India, and South America. What a field of opportunity! Of course the great majority of them are in the United States. They will be found in cities, large and small, in the rural communities, and in mountain sections. Nearly every class, race, and nationality will be found represented in the schools.

The literature alone for these schools cost above $25,000. The offerings taken for mission work and other church extension represents another $50,000. Quite a number of our missionaries, their children, or other phases of mission work are supported by the individual Sunday schools.

Many of the forward steps of the Church have found their beginnings in the Sunday school, or otherwise have been sponsored by it.

Having taken a very brief survey of the past in our Sunday school activities, and then having looked at her present sphere of service, it is only natural to consider the challenge this places before us as we see the many opportunities in the future.

When we look at the army of Sunday school workers, as mentioned before, consisting of more than 5,000 teachers, about 1500 officers and others directly responsible for the carrying on of the work, we are made to realize that careful thought, planning, and supervision are needed. Literature must be supplied, teachers need to be trained, the best methods are to be considered and adopted, problems arise to be solved, and other and newer tasks are continually arising. The Sunday school has done much good. She is now doing good. But there is yet room for increasing her efficiency and enlarging her field of service.

To meet these needs of the present and future the Church has made provisions. The General Sunday School Committee is appointed by and works under the direction of General Conference. The various conference districts have their own Sunday school officials, field workers, or secretaries, to assist and direct the work in their respective territories. Then, too, each congregation has its own officers, who are chosen to direct the work locally.

There is ample provision as far as organization is concerned. But there are a number of things that will assist in meeting the challenge of the future. It is necessary that the above-named bodies and officials clearly understand their own and associated workers' duties and then coöperate in the carrying out of these duties. It is necessary that the Church leaders in general maintain an active and enlightened interest in Sunday school work and its problems. Then, too, there needs to be a fair appreciation of the work already done and a candid acknowledgment of failures and deficiencies.

When we notice the emphasis the

New Testament places on the teaching of the Word, and then when we realize how sadly it has been neglected in our churches and homes, and that the Church's present most effective method for the systematic teaching of the Word is the Sunday school, it certainly should be the means of calling us to new interest, coöperation, and support, in every phase of our Sunday school work.

ACCUSATIONS OF FANATICISM AND CRIME AGAINST THE EARLY SWISS BRETHREN

By John Horsch

The early Mennonites (Swiss Brethren) of the Swiss canton of Appenzell were accused by certain contemporary writers of appalling immoralities and the most senseless and offensive fanaticism. It need scarcely be said that among their antagonists and persecutors there were those who believed every evil rumor about them that came to their ears.

Heinrich Bullinger, the chief literary opponent of the Brethren, an outstanding defender of the supposed need of persecuting and suppressing them as a church, wrote concerning them: "In Appenzell they committed deeds of glaring shame and vice." Johannes Kessler of St. Gall, relates that some of the Anabaptists in Appenzell interpreted certain sayings of Jesus to mean that to be saved one must become childish. They amused themselves, he says, by imitating childish play, such as tying pine cones to a string and dragging them on the ground. According to Kessler they pretended that, having become like little children, they were unable to take ordinary care of themselves, etc. However neither Kessler nor Bullinger state that they had been in Appenzell to witness these things, and they did not disclose on what authority they repeated these reports. The source material of the archives of Appenzell contains nothing to indicate that there is any foundation whatever to these reports of fanaticism and immorality which were circulated about the Brethren. This is made clear by the work on the history of the Reformation in Appenzell by Johannes Willi, who made himself thoroughly acquainted with the pertinent source material.

Charges of immorality, fierce fanaticism, and idiocy were made not only against the Brethren of Appenzell and St. Gall, but of other cantons as well. Johannes Gast, the successor of Oecolampad, the Zwinglian reformer of Basel, made charges of rank fanaticism against the Brethren in the canton Schaffhausen. But C. A. Baechtold, a clergyman of the Reformed state church, now the foremost authority on the history of the Brethren in Schaffhausen, states that in the sources not a trace is found of any such idiocy among the Brethren in Schaffhausen, neither of the immoralities of which they were accused. He adds that "the chronicler Imthurn would surely have made mention of these reports if they had in his opinion even a semblance of truth." At so late a date as the year 1884 a certain Reformed historian spoke, on the authority of Gast, of rank fanaticism among the Swiss Brethren in Basel. The book of Burckhardt on the Anabaptists in Basel, which appeared in 1898, shows the groundlessness of this accusation.

It may be worth while in this connection to notice that other denominations of that period also were slandered and maligned. Ulrich Zwingli, the founder of the Swiss Reformed state church, stated in some of his earlier writings that his followers were accused of various crimes. Later, in 1531, he complained that they were accused of holding "all the Anabaptist errors." Johannes Kessler wrote that, concerning the Bible meetings at St. Gall, in 1524, in which he served as "reader", the report was circulated that "the real purpose of these meetings was fornication." Likewise the Mennonites and Calvinists of the Netherlands were accused of being polygamists. Of Martin Luther it was asserted that he renounced Romanism because he desired license to sin, that he lived in drunkenness and other vices and finally ended his life a wretched suicide. In Austria the willingness of the Anabaptists to die for their supposed errors was explained by the supposition that their leaders were in league with the devil and had gained control over their followers by sorcery. The Austrian government, in 1533, instructed the authorities of Guffidaun, in the Tyrol, to cook the food of certain imprisoned Brethren with holy water and consecrated salt, and watch how they would behave after eating. The authorities believed that the Anabaptists were bewitched by their ministers who were supposed to give them to drink out of a little flask which had been obtained from the evil one, and this was the cause of their steadfastness in their supposed errors. The holy water and holy salt were expected to break the spell of witchery. A bishop of the Brethren in Austria, Leonard Schiemer, who, in 1528 was executed with the sword at Schwatz in the Tyrol, wrote a booklet entitled, A Reply to those who say we drink something out of a little flask; the devil knows what is in it.

Among those who accused the Swiss Brethren in Appenzell of misdeeds and crimes was Ulrich Zwingli. He brought charges against them which were of so serious a nature as to offend the Council (the civil authorities) of Appenzell. These charges were made by Zwingli in a sermon which he preached in Zurich some time in December, 1525, or early in January of the following year. In this sermon he mentioned the Anabaptists (the name commonly given the Brethren) in Appenzell, and denounced their supposed misdeeds. In a letter dated January 17, 1526, to Dr. Joachim von Watt, called Vadian, in St. Gall, Zwingli stated that he had in a sermon made mention in a general way of shameless things which were practiced by the Anabaptists in Appenzell. He said further that reports of their crimes, consisting of the most offensive open practice of lewdness, had come to him, and—Appenzell being located near St. Gall—he asked Vadian regarding the truth of these reports, as they were doubted in Zurich. Again, in a letter to Capito in Strasburg, dated January 1, 1526, Zwingli alluded to the supposed crimes of the Anabaptists in Appenzell.

In confirmation of Zwingli's charges against the Swiss Brethren of Appenzell, Professor Walter Koehler says that the Council of Appenzell saw itself compelled to take action. However, as the reference given by Professor Koehler indicates, the action taken was confined to forbidding the meetings of the Brethren; it did not include punishment of transgression. Since clearly none of the supposed offenders was taken to task, the reputation of the Council of Appenzell was at stake for tolerating such atrocities as Zwingli had mentioned.

Within a few weeks it came to Zwingli's ears that the Council of Appenzell had heard of the sermon in question and were greatly offended. He wrote the Council a letter of apology (Zwingli's Works, new edition, vol. VIII, p. 523), admitting that he had preached a sermon in which he said that "at the present time the Anabaptists are making the good people of Appenzell a great deal of trouble and difficulty; they go to such length in their licentiousness that it is a shame."

The exact wording of Zwingli's pertinent statements in his sermon is not known, though there is no question concerning the seriousness of his charges. Probably Zwingli himself did not recall the exact words he had used. His writings against the Brethren show that he was wont to use the strongest terms in accusing and denouncing them. He stated in this letter of apology that it had not been his intention to criticize or censure the government of Appenzell. However, the assertion which he had evidently made concerning the supposed crimes of the Brethren was in plain fact equivalent to a real censure of a government which would let such things go unpunished. All indications are, as intimated above, that the Council of Appenzell could not point to a single instance in which an Anabaptist was taken to account for an unlawful deed. And the Council obviously was not flattered by the insinuation that they had less information than Zwingli of the alleged Anabaptist crimes committed in Appenzell.

Obviously Zwingli took a lesson from these experiences with the government of Appenzell. In his last book against the Brethren, a Latin work entitled Elenchus, which he wrote in the year 1527, he accused them repeatedly of every misdeed in the catalog of crimes. His accusations, however, are almost wholly of a general, indefinite nature. The tone in which this book is written may be judged by the following quotation from it. Addressing the Brethren he said, "As often as you confess Christ (by 'you' I mean your leaders) you make a confession that is worse than that of the demons. For they had experienced His power in such measure that they sincerely confessed Him to be the Son of God. But you, when you confess Him, do it hypocritically," etc. (Selected Works of Huldreich Zwingli, edited by S. M. Jackson, Philadelphia, 1901, p. 150). In this book he makes definite statements only in one instance as to when, where, and by whom the alleged transgression was committed, namely in the case of the fratricide in St. Gall (in which the guilty person was not an Anabaptist). Thus Zwingli made sure that his charges would not involve any government. Nevertheless, if any reader of Zwingli's book was aware that no Anabaptist had been punished for crime or lawlessness, he must have thought it strange that the governments evidently had no information about these supposed crimes. There is no case on record in which a Swiss Anabaptist was punished for any transgression, such as those of which Zwingli accused them.

We have indicated above that the early leaders of state church Protestantism also were slandered and maligned. However, the gross falsehoods which were spread concerning them are to-day freely recognized as such even by Roman Catholic scholars, while, sad to say, some of the most recent Mennonite writers on this subject have assumed that the severe accusations made against the Brethren in Appenzell and St. Gall are not without foundation in fact.

POWER

The man who is filled with the Holy Ghost will not be constantly talking and thinking about baptisms of power. Nay, rather, filled with grace that humbles him into the dust, he will be even conscious that he is and has nothing. He will desire that the Lord be glorified rather than that he be used. His cry will be, "Lord, make me useable," rather than "use me."

A sense of the grace and goodness of God in Christ will be so paramount, that priceless as the privilege is of helping others, this can never again become the place whereon we offer the sacrifice of our time and talents unto God. Many of us, alas! have worshiped in that "high place;" many have bowed down to that secret idol, only to find that all power as well as grace has vanished as a dream in the night. That is the Delilah on whose lap many have slumbered, only to awake and find that the Philistines are upon them. They rise and discover that they are as weak as other men.

The subtle temptation to rejoice in God's good gifts, instead of Himself, has entrapped them, as it did good Hezekiah long ago, to make a boastful show to the uncircumcised of all that God has given and done for and through them. Power has been the idol; grace has been dethroned, and they are wretched and miserable, and poor and blind and naked once more. —Dynamic of Service.

Faith that is built upon feeling rests on a false foundation; but if it is erected upon the truthful and eternalness of God's promises it is as secure as God Himself.—T. H. Atkinson.

TO GAIN FAITH

I suppose that if all the time I have prayed for faith were put together it would amount to months. I used to say, "What we want is faith; if we only have faith, we can turn Chicago upside down," or rather, right side up. I thought that some day faith would come down and strike me like lightning. But faith did not seem to come. One day I read in the 10th chapter of Romans, "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." I had closed my Bible and prayed for faith. I now opened my Bible, and began to study, and faith has been growing ever since.—D. L. Moody.

"HE HATH SAID"

When the battle is the hardest,
Trials press on every side,
And the tempter calls the loudest,
That his way is bright and wide,

Then doth Jesus gently whisper
Words so full of love and cheer:
"I have said, I will not leave thee;
Fear thou not, for I am near."

When thy way seems hard and rugged,
And thy strength is nearly gone,
Still He saith, "I will sustain thee;
Thou walk'st not the way alone.

"'Neath My wing I'll ever hide thee,
And in pastures green I'll lead;
When thy heart is pressed with burdens,
I'll supply thy ev'ry need."

Yea, we know that God is faithful,
That His ev'ry Word is sure;
Let us, then, in faith look to Him,
For His grace that will endure.
—Alliance Weekly.

FORGIVEN AND FORGIVING

Forgiveness is one thing that a true Christian knows he needs. It is likewise one thing that too many who bear the name Christian are reluctant to give. We remember an old story. A man was in prison and a former schoolmate became interested in him. He visited him many times and found that he had many excellent traits in spite of his crime. He seemed especially concerned for his wife and two children, who were of course deprived of his help. The friend was a man of standing and high character, and set about to free his old schoolmate. Finally, after much labor and sacrifice, he gained a full pardon from the state, and with joy set out for the prison house. The precious document was in his pocket and he resolved to visit the prisoner before he gave it to the warden. He had his interview, and said to the man he would save: "Sam, if you were set free with full pardon, what would you do?" The man replied: "I would go at once to that lawyer who put me here and I would give him a horse-whipping. I would search out So-and-So, who complained against me, and I would ruin him if I could; finally, I would go to the judge who presided at the trial and sentenced me and I might kill him." The visiting friend said not a word, and going back to the governor, told him the man was not safe to be set free and asked him to cancel the pardon.

It makes no matter whether the story is true in all details or not. We think it illustrates the word of Jesus: "If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses." It is not safe to do so. We have sometimes been frightened to recall that being forgiven depends so much on forgiving. We have not always found forgiveness easy, but if we take it to God we usually find the strength and power to forgive. We have been distressed to discover how often Christians with many virtues will cherish a wrong, which is real, or in some instances imagined. We knew two professed disciples of Christ who cherished an enmity for over twenty years. We wonder if they barred their own forgiveness. So many times the cause of Christ would be advanced if one could gain Christ's spirit of forgiveness. Remember this: if we will not forgive, we will not be forgiven. —The Presbyterian.

"SUN OF MY SOUL"

Two Christian gentlemen met one summer day in a public park, and after expressing to each other their appreciation of God's goodness, strolled quietly along together, discussing religious principles.

"What is your true conception of Jesus Christ?" asked one.

The other stood for a moment deep in thought, then, pointing to a bed of beautiful flowers, just bathing in the rays of the morning sun, replied:

"What the sun is to those flowers, Jesus Christ is to my soul."

A realization of what the sun is to the flowers, just magnifies the true value of Christ to mankind, and settles once and for all the true relationship between God and man.—The Elim Evangel.

WITHIN THE VEIL

I stood upon the mountain
While the storm raged far below;
I could hear the thunder crashing,
And could see the lightning glow.
I could feel the wild wind blowing,
And I watched the tall trees bend,
As the fury of the tempest
Seemed to tear and bruise and rend.

Naught that stood within its pathway
Safe from violence seemed to be.
And I saw the green leaves moving
Like the billows of the sea.
As the storm at last grew quiet,
And the thunder ceased to roll,
Then I heard a sweet voice speaking—
Words of peace within my soul.

"Fear not! I am with thee alway
When the storms of life prevail;
I will keep thee close beside Me
Safe within the shattered veil."
And I knew my Lord was Master
Of my soul, that stormy day,
As I stood upon the mountain
While the storm clouds rolled away.

—Francis G. Cookson.

A MORNING PRAYER

By Elizabeth Sudlow

How few of our children have been taught to pray in the morning for strength to carry on throughout the day. We teach them to kneel at night, but the morning hours are so crowded that too often this is neglected. In one Primary Department the workers felt this condition might be improved if the children were taught a prayer to use early in the day, so with this thought in mind the following words were printed on a card which hangs where all may see. The prayer is used each Sunday, and as the children become familiar with the words they pray them every day in the home:

> Dear Jesus, help me to turn to Thee for strength whenever I am tempted to do wrong this day. Give me courage to do cheerfully and well the work I ought to do no matter how hard or disagreeable it may be. Amen.

The daily use of such a prayer learned early in life should mean much to these children.

"ON THE BORDER"

When Melvin Cotter bought the old Brant place, everybody knew that the run-down place would soon change its appearance. And before many weeks had passed their predictions came true. Melvin Cotter was not the type of man to permit any of his property to look like wreck and ruin. He transformed its appearance by making improvement wherever it was needed. The buildings were painted, brush piles cleaned up, corners hoed out, in fact there was nothing neglected.

Next, Melvin decided to set out some fruit trees. He searched the nursery catalogues until he found what he wanted. He prepared the ground thoroughly, and then ordered his stock.

"I want you to set them along that south line," he told his gardener. "Those trees will make a splendid border and will make a permanent boundary line between my neighbor and myself."

The stock arrived, the best that money could buy. The ground was thoroughly prepared, and the roots placed with care. The young trees were fenced in with wire so that cats and other animals could not injure the bark.

"That is just exactly as I had planned," Melvin Cotter said when the work was completed. "I can hardly wait for them to bear fruit."

But ere this would transpire, a few years would elapse. During that period the trees would be watched closely lest something might injure them. Melvin was away for two years—just when the trees began to bear. He returned during the summer when the trees were loaded with young fruit.

"You will have a marvelous crop this fall," the gardener told him. "I never saw trees hold forth better prospects of a bumper crop than those very trees."

"The mountains and the hills shall break forth . . . into singing."

Fall came, and Melvin prepared to pick his apples, but he had failed to take into consideration one vital factor. That was his neighbor.

"Are you planning to set your ladders on my ground?" he asked Melvin.

"If you will permit me to," Melvin replied.

"Contrary to your expectations, I am refusing your request," the neighbor replied. "Furthermore, I claim all the fruit that hangs on my side of the line. The laws of this state give me that right, and I forbid you to touch any fruit on my side of the line."

The trees had been planted close to the line, and nearly half the fruit was across the line. The neighbor was determined in his claim, and Melvin had no choice but to abide by the law. Those trees which he had planted and tended, and from which he had expected so much, gave nearly half their crop to one who had done nothing for them. Melvin was disappointed and heartsore over this condition, but he must abide by it.

Some would say that Melvin should have taken the fruit by force. But let us go farther. God created man that man might glorify God. He equipped him with the faculties by which this could be done. He showered blessings upon him. He gave to each individual talents to be used. And then He looked for fruit. But what does He find as He looks through the world of mankind? Much of the fruit that should go to God is dropping in the lap of the world. Instead of being entirely consecrated to God, we try to serve God and the world at the same time. We give to God with one hand, and to the world with the other. We live on the border so that this may be a convenient way to live.

Don't think that God is indifferent to this, His heart is sorrowful and torn at this condition in the individual life. Now, friend, perhaps you are one of the trees with fruit on both sides of the line, trying to please God and appease the world at the same time. If so, it would be far better to get entirely on one side of the line or the other for "no man can serve two masters." A straddler is a much disliked person, and is unsatisfactory to either side. Either serve God as you should, or make no pretense whatever. The fruit of your life should go to God. Then let Him have all of it.—L. L. Wightman.

Righteousness passes on its own merit.—T. H. Atkinson.

LITTLE THINGS

A big steamer went upon the rocks and was totally wrecked. No storm was prevailing at the time, and the wonder was that the captain, who was a skilled and experienced officer, would have been careless enough to let his boat go so far from the course. No one was more surprised than the captain, who could find no way in which to explain the accident, until it occurred to him to examine the compass. He found in the box something that looked like the point of a steel knife blade. The day before, in trying to remove a spot of rust while cleaning the compass, a sailor had broken off a bit of the point of the blade of his knife. This bit was not a quarter of an inch long; but, by drawing the needle far enough away from its true direction to mislead the man at the wheel, it wrecked a vessel that was three hundred feet long. The knife that was broken was not worth fifty cents, but it destroyed a vessel worth $500,000.

Little words and deeds are often like the bit of steel which drew the magnetic needle away from its proper pointing. A thoughtless word, a careless deed, may start something in motion which will wreck lives and send souls to hell. Let us give the little things into God's keeping.—Publisher Unknown.

DON'T LET THEM FOOL YOU

"Before Prohibition the breweries and distilleries made 2,095,535,005 gallons of liquor. That meant an annual average consumption of 19.95 gallons of liquor for every man, woman and child to the tiniest baby in the United States.

"This before-prohibition rate would make the consumption to-day 2,400,000,000 gallons. If every automobile in the United States were to transport 100 gallons of this liquor, there would still be 100,000,000 gallons untransported.

"It would also mean a 'grand parade.' Allowing eight feet between cars would mean 136,363 miles of cars or over 45 strings of automobiles stretching across the United States.

"There are not enough bottle factories in the United States to bottle all this for the bootleggers.

"You are not fooled, are you, when they tell you there is more drinking than before Prohibition?"—The National Voice.

GOING BACK

One of the lessons in life that is hardest to learn is to go back to the places where we have failed in duty. When Elijah fled to the wilderness and God sought him out and asked him why he was there, the only answer God made to him was, "Go, return."

In other words God always sends us back to the places of our failure in order that we may gain a moral victory at the point where we had failed.

Dr. John A. Hutton once pointed out that there is not a greater moment in the soul of a man than when he puts aside his pride, takes back all the presumptuous vows which he made that he would never do this or that, and faces that lonely transaction. You do not know God until you are acquainted with that tremendous experience of going back.—Christian Observer.

MINDING GOD

"Sir," said the Duke of Wellington to an officer of the engineers who argued the impossibility of executing the directions he had received, "I did not ask your opinion; I gave you my orders and I expect them to be obeyed."

Such should be the obedience of every follower of the Lord Jesus Christ. The words which He has spoken are our law. If in sincere faith we seek honestly to obey, He will see that strength and ability to obey the command are given. May each of us have this sincere purpose to "mind God."—Publisher Unknown.

The night is rapidly approaching, but with it also will hasten on the "morning without clouds."—R.

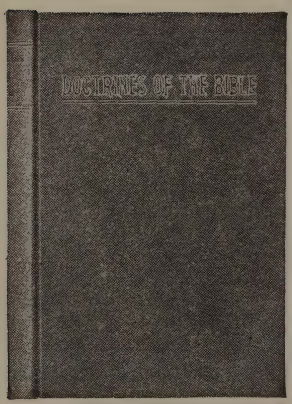
DOCTRINES OF THE BIBLE



A comprehensive book, treating on all the major doctrines of the Bible. It is analytical in its treatment of subjects, yet as a whole is an interesting and readable book for all classes of people. Ministers, students, Christian workers, and those who enjoy reading for devotional purposes will find something here that will appeal to them. It will serve as a ready reference book in the Christian home.

The book is divided into eight parts: God; Man; God and Man; Realms of Darkness; God's Plan of Salvation; The Church; Christian Life; The Future. The chapters are carefully subdivided and outlined. It gives a brief discussion of Scripture teachings as set forth in God's Word.

This book should be in every Mennonite home. One of our ministers in recommending it to his congregation held up a copy and said, "This is the strongest book of our faith that I ever read." Send us your order for a copy at once before you neglect it, or give your order to your local representative.

The book contains 640 pages, size 6 x 8½ inches, substantially bound in dark blue cloth with gold lettering. Each, postpaid.....$ 2.00

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

RUSSIA FAMINE

1919—1925

TELLS ITS OWN STORY

of the race with the grim reaper DEATH in a land of political revolution and the persecution of a once thrifty and progressive people combined with the results of Civil War and finally the monster FAMINE.

Thousands Were Saved

from starvation through the united effort of Mennonites in America. The book tells how the news of their distress and need first reached America; what efforts were made to bring relief; how our contact was made in Russia; how our food was delivered and finally prepared and fed to the starving.

You Have An Opportunity to help again in the present effort to bring relief to those who have left home and native country for a land of religious freedom and civil rights to hold property. This book is published by the Mennonite Central Committee and every sale brings back to its treasury about two-thirds of the retail price which will become available for further relief work. You are providing a splendid book for your library and at the same time helping the cause of relief through your purchase.

Read the following message from President Hoover, Washington, D. C., regarding the book:

"It presents a wonderful record of generosity and service by those of the Mennonite faith which perhaps only those like myself, with whom the society so effectively cooperated will ever fully appreciate. For a society of such limited membership and such moderate means to have contributed over $1,300,000.00 to these purposes in addition to their other burdens during the war, is evidence of self-denial and generosity which brings credit upon the whole American life."

The book is substantially bound in cloth with gold back and side stamp. 465 pages with 60 additional pages of illustrations. Size 6 x 8¼ inches. Weight 2lb.

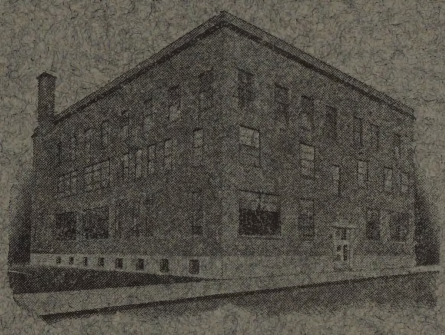
YOUR OPPORTUNITY

to render a personal service in the work of a Church Institution may never be opened to you but there may be ways and means at your command which have been unnoticed. The work of the Mennonite Publishing House has been made possible through a consistent financial program carried out by the assistance given thruout the Church by individuals. This service can be extended to others and you are invited to have a share in it. Please note the following suggestions.

ANNUITIES

This form of donation is appealing to many of our people. A certain rate of interest is paid on the donation as long as the donor lives. After death the interest is discontinued and the principal is in the hands of the institution. It provides a safe investment. The interest is paid every six months. No state or inheritance tax can be collected from it. The donor becomes his own administrator of his estate.



The Gospel Herald and Christian Monitor Annuities are being continued. $30.00 pays for the Gospel Herald for a life time. $20.00 pays for the Christian Monitor.

DONATIONS

Further development of the work will be greatly enhanced by the assistance that is given in the form of donations. The possibilities for the spread of Gospel Truths are increasing as the years go by and the printing industry is developed. Millions of pages of printed matter are being circulated thru our present equipment. The possibility of increasing this circulation is ever before us. If you cannot make your donation now, a bequest in your will can easily be arranged. An opportunity for real service in the cause of the Master is open to those who have financial means at their command.

LOANS

Until the present liabilities are cancelled by either of the above forms or through the profits of the work of the Institution the loan department will be open to our people. While the original loans were sufficient to cover all indebtedness, there are constant changes through the calling of these loans made to the House. As these calls are satisfied, they are replaced with other loans. We thus have a sort of banking arrangement. Money is received as needed in any amount not less than $100.00. Thirty days notice is required to withdraw it. The interest is paid annually. Notes are written for one year and automatically renew as the interest is paid.
